Taproot Theater- See How They Run

Time for another great play at Taproot Theater in Seattle - See How They Run. All Penelope wants in an evening out; surely even vicars' wives can have an innocent night on the town with an old friend. But between a buzzed busy-body in the closet, a volley of vicars galloping across the lawn and a Soviet spy on the loose, this night is racing toward insanity. Lunch prior to the play at a local restaurant.

Transit Trip:

SAM-Georgia O'Keeffe: Abstract Variations

Join us for a transit adventure as we board the 545 to visit the Seattle Art Museum in downtown Seattle. Our focus will be on the special Georgia O'Keeffe exhibit. Explore O'Keeffe's unique approach to abstraction through 17 works from the 1910s to the 1930s. At the heart of the installation is Music, Pink and Blue, No. 1, the first complete expression of O'Keeffe's personal brand of modernism. We will also have time to enjoy other exhibits and lunch on your own at the on-site Taste Café.

Shakespeare in the Park – The Comedy of Errors

What could be more enjoyable than a summer evening in the park listening to Shakespeare's classic? The Comedy of Errors is a side-splitting comedy of mishaps and mayhem created by two sets of twins searching for their lost family. The Wooden O does a great job of making the story come alive. The Luther Burbank Park Amphitheatre on Mercer Island is our destination. The Homegrown Sandwich Shop is our dinner stop before the evening show.
